Society Purpose

The Oklahoma Society for Psychoanalytic Studies (OSPS) is a local chapter of the Division 39 (Psychoanalysis) of the American Psychological Association. This chapter was established in August 1990 by a group of professionals interested in a forum for the pursuit of the study of Psychoanalytic literature, theory and practice. The intent is to provide an opportunity for interested individuals to develop and expand their knowledge of Psychoanalytic theory. These goals are accomplished through monthly meetings, periodic lectures and workshops.

As a member of OSPS, you can be actively involved in promoting interest in Psychoanalytic studies in Oklahoma. As a Member you can vote, serve on committees, hold office and participate in all OSPS activities at reduced rates. Associate Members may also serve on committees and participate in chapter activities at reduced rates.

Membership Application Process

Please fill out and mail to our PO Box, the membership application (on the other side of this page) and enclose a check made out to OSPS for membership dues.

Membership Classification

Two classes of membership in the chapter are granted according to the following criteria:

1. To be eligible for MEMBER status, a professional shall be a member of the National Division 39 of APA or licensed by one of the following:
